This third law was to have been one of Long's strongest gestures againts the national administration. He predicted that federal relief and other agencies would be cited as violating the new laws.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 11.—
(UP)—Louisiana's legislature adjourned today after paying Senator Huey P. Long the most practical tribute within its powers.

The legislative houses, meeting in the ornate bronze, gilt and marble halls of the 34-story statehouse built by Long, enacted into law 38 statutes with a precision that could not have been bettered even with Long present.

The special legislative session passed only the laws which Long had personally approved. The laws were passed in the form he desired and according to the schedule he had laid down before assassination brought a company to the schedule he had laid down before assassination brought a lar fashion his feud with the New Deal.

With Long dead, Louisiana officials were not prepared to say what steps would be taken to enforce the new laws. It was obvious, however, Long's death had taken the punch out of the state-federal struggle.

A fourth measure finally approved today had a place in Long's anti-New Deal campaign. This statute provided that all contracts for highway work must be approved by the State Highway Commission. It was intended to give the state a voice over any federal road building program instituted in Louisiana.

Long had freely predicted that exed in the form he desired and according to the schedule he had laid down before assassination brought a sudden end to his spectacular career.

Chief among the measures were laws designed to aid Long in his running fight with New Deal authorities. They were intended to form the framework of a bitter anti-administration campaign beginning within a few weeks and running into the 1936 presidential race.

One provides stiff fines and prison sentences for federal officials attempting to exercise any powers in Louisiana in violation of the tenth (state's rights) amendment to the constitution.

Another enables the state of Louisiana to sue in the United States courts to prevent operation of any federal bureau or agency in violation of state laws.

A third authorizes the state to employ special counsel to prosecute such suits.

Two Atlanta fliers thought to have abandoned their plane as a balky, antiquated model, arrived here at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, having hitchhiked from Rincon, near Savannah, where the plane lies crippled in a muddy field.

As soon as the weather permits they expect to return to Rincon with a new propeller. The propeller was the only part of the plane damaged when they were forced to land, they said.

HOLC loans, reveals a not generally known feature of the protection furnished home owners by this federal recovery agency.

Reports received in the regional office in Atlanta indicate that between 700 and 1,000 homes covered by HOLC loans were more or less damaged during the hurricane, a few of these dwellings being in south Georgia. It is pointed out by Hugh B. Fleece, regional manager, that the homes carrying HOLC loans are protected by tornado insurance, which is not the case with most American homes. Where home owners need additional funds to the insurance coverage to restore their dwellings, the HOLC will assist them in securing the necessary funds or, this being impossible, it will make direct advances in cases of emergency and where the home owner is wholly unable to finance such repairs. Every home that has been damaged will be inspected by representatives of the HOLC, who will determine the amount of work necessary.

This first stage of his life is purely physical. It is a life in darkness. devoted wholly to the bustness of growing and preparing for the life

He has eyes but does not see, ears but does not hear, a brain but does not think. And the fact that he possesses qualities not required for his present form of life is evidence that another kind of life will follow. In due time he dies to the first stage of life and is born into the second. That would seem a painful ordeal, but a kindly nature has arranged all things well. He cannot feel.

There is little immediate change in him when he is born into the second form of life, but he makes a great gain. He sees the light. His senses awaken and he can feel, hear, smell. He is conscious of existence. Soon he can move about and begin to discover and understand and enjoy the wonderful world of his second life.

This second life is physical, as the first was, but it gives him a new capacity. He can think. More Money Going Into Agricultural Mortgages, Says
Prudential Manager.

Improving conditions and the inherent soundness of agriculture in all parts of the country are being reflected by the increased flow of mortgage money into farm loans. While this situation is manifesting itself in the reports of all lending companies, it is particularly apparent in the business of some of the large insurance companies.

Georgia and the entire southeastern agricultural area are following this national trend. Lending agencies are giving favorable consideration to the mortgage applications of farmers and stock breeders in the entire territory from Virginia to Georgia, according to T. W. COUNTRY CLUB. CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 11 .- Dr. Julius Hughes left the national amateur golf tournament this afternoon, but not before he had the boys somewhat excited.

He was in there against Reynolds Smith, a semi-finals man He was in there against Reynolds Smith, a semi-finals man of last year, and all he did to Mr. Smith was fire four birdies at him in the first five holes and take a lead of 4 up.

The black magic which your correspondent has been using on the opponents of the Atlanta entries is a little weak today.

Let work and will mark the opening of the longest season in history.

Late vesterday afternoon, a hamburger which had been consumed some 14 hours before launched a delayed attack and knocked your correspondent right out of the tournament and into a doctor's care.

So the magic was a little weak. It consists of crossing the fingers and wishing they won't. That is to say, your correspondent would stand around and wish, with crossed fingers, when one of the opponents of our boys was getting ready to putt or drive. We wished him a bad drive or a poor putt. And the magic had worked

So today when Dr. Hughes seemed to have matters well in hand, we left him to go help out Charlie Yates with a little magic. And the remote control wouldn't work for Dr. Hughes. Smith caught him and they finished the first nine all square at the even par and then Dr. Hughes' putter failed him on the second nine and he lost, 3 and 2. It was too bad the magic was so weak today. So, for that matter, were the knees. That hamburger had a delayed swing which was very, very powerful.

Dr. Hughes, however, said no amount of magic could have helped him. He putted like an angel on the first nine; that is to say, beautifully. And on the second nine he putted badly.

"Shirley Temple could have putted better than I did," said the Atlantan.

But at that he left them talking. That start of 3, 4, 4, 3, 2 against a par of 4, 5, 4, 4, 3 left Smith somewhat groggy. But he came back. Our magic was too weak.

Hughes, a double by Phillips and Pinch-hitter Winegarner's single accounted for four more runs.

Sad Sam Jones, oldest pitcher in the majors at 42, went the route to give the Chicago White Sox a 10-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox. The victory left the White Sox only half received the Miles Sox

THE POSTMAN RINGS ONCE.

Yates played his best golf of the tournament this morning to beat Pieper. He was even par for the first nine by virtue of some great recoveries. He sank two long putts for birdies. And he turned the first nine 4 up. He was in a lot of trouble on the 12th and lost a hole, but went 4 up again at the 13th. And then on the 14th Pieper sank a 35-foot putt for a birdie 2 to win. "Doggone it," said Yates, "here I was just ready to put my foot on your neck and you have to upset my plans." Pieper grinned. "Just found my game," he said.

Whereupon he won the next hole and halved the next. The wind caught his second shot on 17 and carried into a thicket. Two blasts failed to get the ball out and Pieper came trudging out of the wilderness holding out his hand

Lookout Boss Would Add Much to Southern Play-off; Some Baseball Notes.

By Jimmy Jones.

By Jimmy Jones.

Our old friend and clairvoyant, Joseph Willing Engel, is standing on the outside, looking on the inside at the Shaughnessey play-off which gets under way in the Southern league next Wednesday.

Joe's team, the Chattanooga Lookouts, did not make the first division, so it is very obvious that they cannot participate in the play-off. The rules stipulate that only the first four teams may play for the championship and the Lookouts, unfortunately, are a snappy fifth as the teams head for the wire.

But yesterday, there came a messenger from Chattanooga, bringing the news that Engel is still on his feet,

LAWSON LITTLE

Defending Champion Runs String of Victories to 27.

By Ralph McGill.

COUNTRY CLUB, CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 11.—Charlie Yates fell befor the putting blade of John Nash, for the putting blade of John Nash, Canadian entry in the national amateur golf tournament today, and Atlanta's last representative was gone from the lists, Nash won, 4 and 2.

It was the first day of the two rounds of match play, referred to by the players as "sudden death," and it was all of that. Many of the great names of golf were listed as casualties.

Lawson Little remained, but with Lawson Little remained, but with him were 15 others, only a few of whom have achieved any real fame in golf. It looked really like the line-up for the national intercollegiate with Walter Emery, Freddie Haas, Jack Munger and others going into the first of two rounds tomorrow which will decide the semi-finalists.

Yates' defeat this afternoon came out the heels of a victory on the morning round when he eliminated Ernest Pieper, of California, 3 and 1.

HUGHES LOSES TOUCH

HUGHES LOSES TOUCH.

It was the morning round which saw Dr. Julius Hughes, of Atlanta and Druid Hills, amaze the tournament with a great start of four birdies in five holes to go four up on Reynolds Smith, of Texas. But Hughes' putter failed and he lost on the second pine 3 and 2 nine, 3 and 2.

California, Lawson W. Little, of Sau Francisco.

He stands head and shoulders above the crowd. He has hammered foud opponents into submission and there is no one ahead who looks good enought to give him trouble. Unless his luck runs out he is sure to win this championship for his fourth consecutive amateur title. He has won the British and American amateurs of 1934. He has won the British this year.

In winning those he captured 23 consecutive matches. He has won foud here to run the string to 27. And apparently there is no stopping him.

A KID FIELD.

But the field is made up of kids. And they are at the age where they do not believe anything can happen to stop them. They have the spirit. But it is likely not enough to break through Lawson Little's tremendous drives which reduce the longest holes to short ones. Rarely does Little need a second wood shot. Ou the long ones he usually can reach for his four or five iron and reach the green after his drive.

Today he won from Robert Riegel, the young Virginia College student, in his afternoon match, 5 and 3. The Engel, it is understood, is happy over breaking the 100,000 mark in attendance this year with a fifth place club. He hopes to beat the attendance records of three other cities, Nashville, New Orleans and Memphis, even if they have him beaten in the standings.

It is too bad that Engel's team won't be in the play-off. It could use some of Joseph's color and side-show antics.

His message to the Atlanta writers sounds a little wistful. Engel has been outpointed; he just hasn't heard the bell.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

"Carl tried to create the impression it was a physical collapse due to his supposedly tireless efforts to find Selma. A hospital physician diagnosed it as a form of epilepsy. . . From then on Carl showed up at the department practically every morning, sat around in one office or another, . "It tell you, Ann, it's a water-tight case against Carl, as I see it, and when you've read Mollie's copy of the thing that's supposed to be a sort of thumbnail story of Fuhrman's life, you'll begin to put the picture together the way I have. In my opinion that story is Carl's own and, up to a certain point, probably true. He set out to murder three persons, and, possibly four—Fuhrman, Deane, the senator—and maybe Selma. #### The DEBUNKER By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

It was after 10 o'clock when Lee lay down on the shaky cot in the langar within a dozen feet of his plane, but when he was waked at a quarter after 1, he felt that his three hours sleep had done him worlds of good. His plane was already out on the starting line. He had a sandwich and coffee, and at 10 minutes to 2 went to telephone his home. The sleepy voice of a maid answered.

The underground chamber was hollowed in solid rock. Most likely it was made to hold the king's mummy, but the workmen did not finish it. Perhaps Khufu changed his mind, and decided that he wanted to be buried higher up.

No. 2 Hard Sells in Chicago Sharp Rise Noted in Cotton Mill Activity During July at 21 Cents Above Septemand August.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(47)—America's textile industry, forever beset by some new economic terror, has apparently turned into what analysts believe should be a period of strength and expansion.

believe should be a period of strength and expansion.

More than two years ago the entire industry struggled with unprecedented high production schedules just before the advent of NRA codes, and in following months the trade suffered from the excess output.

About a year ago, strikes tied manufacturers into a tight knot, processing taxes began to chafe, Japanese competition pinched more tightly on export markets, and profits were something to boast about.

But in the past few weeks there has been a progressive change noted

But in the past few weeks there has been a progressive change noted in major branches of the textile industry.

Cotton manufacturing activity rose sharply from July through August and into September, and some trade sources contend the trend should continue.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(P)—Reacting from advances, wheat values in Chicago averaged lower late today.

Selling pressure that developed toward the last in the wheat pit here came largely from houses with Canadian connections, and was believed to be hedging a profit-taking. After trading had ended, estimates were current that new export busines in Canadian wheat today aggregated 2,000.000 bushels.

The Chicago wheat market closed irregular, 1 cent lower to 3-8 higher compared with yesterday's finish, Dencember 93 to 93 1-8, Corn 3-4 off to 7-8 up. December 57, oats at 1-8 decline to 1-4 advance, and provisions warying from 15 cents setback to a rise of 7 cents.

Influenced by Liverpool quotations much higher than expected and by bullish aspects of the United States government crop report, wheat prices in Chicago tended upward most of the day. Cables said price advances in Chicago tended upward most of the day. Domestic arrivals of wheat were in keen demand for immediate delivery.

No. 2 hard wheat sold in Chicago today at 21 cents a bushel spot cash over September contracts, the topmost premium yet this season.

"We'd better not go in too far." "Oh, just a little way," urged Doc; "maybe we'll come to a native village." "Suppose they were cannibals?" "Oh, just a native village." "Suppose they were cannibals?"
"Shucks," scoffed the American lad, "there aren't

"Who, me? Of course I'm not afraid," Dick replied valiantly. "All right, come ahead then," and Doc led the way along the little path that bored into the depths of the forest, then joined a wide, well-beaten trail. Suddenly Dick pointed into the trees. "Look!" he whispered.

Doc glanced up and saw a monkey surveying them solemnly. Presently it began to chatter to several others. "My cousin Tarzan would know what they're saying," Dick observed. "Maybe he'll ' Doc suggested-"but perhaps it's better we don't know.

PERSONAL PERSONAL PROPERTY AND THE PARTY OF PARTY OF PERSONAL PROPERTY AND THE PARTY OF PERSONAL PROPERTY OF PERSO

As the boys approached, the monkeys retreated, jumping and jabbering. Dick and Doc followed, absorbed by their antics, forgetting time and distance. Thus it was that they failed to notice a branch of the big trail, and several smaller paths that joined it at intervals!
